ROBINSON'S COLT RUSCHCUTTER WON THE ASCOT STAKES

No one on the lawn applauded more than Her Most Gracious Majesty Queen Alexandra, who was present looking her loveliest in a hyacinth-blue costume and black plumed hat. "To race or not to race?" That is the question we are at present betting upon here in Victoria. Let us remember this fact: Queen Alexandra, England's greatest lady, respected and beloved by all her subjects for her good and noble actions, not only sanctions the races, but attends them in person. She drove to Ascot seated in the royal carriage and her postillions and even her outriders wore the Ascot racing livery in compliment to the racing fraternity. Surely then, for Victorians to attend their own race meeting cannot be the deadly sin some folk would imply. Are you in doubt? If so, remember when you don't know, "Mumm's" the word. Order a bottle of G. H. Mumm & Co.'s Selected Brut or Extra Dry. Mumm's Champagne is the "thoroughbred of wines"; it should help solve the problem.

Many of them were titled ladies. All of them hold high places in the opinion of their different countries. Victoria is the last place they are visiting in a tour through Canada, prior to their return to their homes.

The object of the International Council of Women is to further the application of the golden rule to society, custom and law. The principles of its constitution in brief are, an equal moral standard; peace, and arbitration; and the rights of citizenship.

CORPORATIONS ONE PER CENT

Proposed Tax Cut Down After Conference Held at White House

INCOME PROPOSAL GOES TO STATES

House and Senate Conferees Now Hard at Work on Schedules

At a conference at the White house today, it was definitely decided that the rate to be levied under the new corporation tax shall be reduced from two to one per cent, and re-drafting the measure to meet various objections that have been raised, due consideration shall be given to the demands of the mutual life insurance companies whose income would be seriously affected by the tax in its original form.

President Taft was the central figure in a number of conferences today, and is living up to the prediction made many weeks ago that in the conference consideration on the tariff, he would actively lend his influence to bringing about a conciliation of the differences between the two houses.

President Taft is in daily consultation with the tariff conferees. He told several of his callers today that he is finding the conferees conciliatory, and he is hopeful that a satisfactory measure will be presented to him for his signature. The conference report should be available, according to the president's information, by the end of next week.

As to the mutual insurance companies, it is stated that the redrafted bill will provide that portion of the income may be deducted before the tax on moneys available for dividend is assessed. It will be so arranged that the tax will fall upon stockholders' profits, and allowances be made for annuities and other long term contracts which the companies have outstanding.

Senator Aldrich, Attorney General Wickersham, Senator Burrows, Senator Smoot, Representative Fordney and Speaker Cannon were among those who discussed the tariff and the corporation tax with the president today. The attorney general has been fairly overwhelmed with callers and with letters asking for information about various features of the measure. The president told his visitors that his position on a number of features of tariff legislation.

Conference at Work
Proceeding along the lines of least resistance, the tariff conferees made satisfactory progress today, in spite of the fact that the house members were compelled to be absent much of the time on account of the session of the house. Thus far, however, the amendments agreed upon in chemical, earthenware, metal and wood schedules have been of minor importance. Determined opposition was shown by the house conferees to the increase from 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 cents a pound which the senate made on lead bullion.

As a result this schedule was held up, and consequently there has been no settlement of the amendments to the items in the chemical schedule, such as paints, the basis of which is lead. This furnishes a good example of the manner in which the conferees have proceeded.

The paragraph relating to electric light carbons threatened to give the conferees trouble, and its consideration was postponed. The senate changed the duties from ad valorem to specific, and the house conferees contend that the rates were thereby increased. The same thing is true in regard to window glass, on which the senate fixed a graduated tax according to size.

The more important of the subjects passed over in the metal schedule are iron ore, lead bullion and zinc ore and bullion. Iron ore was placed on the free list by the house and made dutiable at 25 cents a ton by the senate. The Dingley rate is cents a ton.

The general impression is that the senate will make a concession to the house, and that as a compromise the rate may be fixed at 10 or 15 cents a ton.

The house provision for free hides, struck out by the senate and the existing rate of fifteen per cent ad valorem substituted, and that for $1 on lumber which rate was materially increased in the senate, will be the subject of contest. It is not likely, however, that they will be reached this week.

Income Tax
It is now up to the legislatures of the several states to say whether there shall be an income tax amendment to the constitution. By the decisive vote of 317 to 14 the house today passed the senate joint resolution providing for the submission of the question to the states. The negative votes were cast by Republicans. No amendment having been made to the resolution, it now goes to the president for his signature.

Mr. Lemieux Back From States
Ottawa, July 12.—Lemieux returned to Ottawa today from attending the Champlain tercentenary celebration at Champlain, N. Y., and Burlington, Vt. He expressed keen appreciation of the good work of the imperial press conference on the question of cheaper press rates, and said he was confident something will be accomplished.

BARRISTER WILL GIVE OPINION

None of Mayor's Anti-Betting Resolution Till Council Gets Legal Advice

While the members of the city council showed no disposition to pass the resolution submitted by the mayor on the question of betting at the race meet they went so far as to decide to refer it to the city barrister for the purpose of ascertaining just what status the city has under the agreement between the B. C. Agricultural Association and the Country Club, the latter agreement had been first referred to the council and approved. The stand taken by the council was to the effect that while the Country Club may or may not be living up to the agreement relative to holding of the grounds for the purposes of a race meet, the city should take no steps towards cancelling the agreement and terminating the tenure of the Country Club until the city barrister has an opportunity of looking into the matter.

Mayor Hall's resolution was as follows: "Whereas the British Columbia Agricultural Association being the tenants on sufferance of the agricultural fair grounds, have permitted the use of the grounds for continuous daily racing for 60 days, of which 30 days have expired; this exceeds the originally contemplated programme.

"And whereas the continuation of the daily racing in the present mode with the attendant reprehensible and growing practice of extensive betting is inimical to the welfare of the city.

"Therefore be it resolved that the council do take steps to terminate the occupation of the B. C. Agricultural grounds by the present occupants."

Urges Cancellation
Prior to the submission of the resolution to the council a deputation composed of over 50 individuals, headed by Noah Shakespeare, had gathered in the council chamber within the hall. They were there to point out the fact that betting is being indulged in at the Willows track and the consequent evils which are alleged to follow in the train of gambling, the bad effect on the young men and women of the city. Outside the hall were a number of horsemen and others who, while they did not take any part in the proceedings, listened to the remarks with considerable interest.

On the invitations of the mayor, Noah Shakespeare, on behalf of the deputation, "good looking gentlemen," as he termed them, referred to the resolution which he understood Mayor Hall contemplated introducing to the council to cancel the race meet on the grounds that the agreement between the Country Club and the Agricultural Association has been violated inasmuch that betting is allowed at the Willows track. Judging from what he had heard on the street there must be a great deal of truth in the reports of betting. He doubted not, but that the members of the council would be surprised to learn that one of the city's pawnbrokers has refused to accept any more pledges from persons who have been pawning their valuables in order to secure more money wherewith to continue their betting operations at the race track. The local business men who at first believed that the holding of the race meet would bring a good class of tourists here and there would be a consequent increase in the amount of money spent in legitimate channels, are now convinced that instead, the race meet would prove a serious detriment to the material and moral welfare of the city. He understood that young men who have been losing their money at the race track have been unable to meet their obligations. He called upon the mayor and council as custodians of the welfare of the city to see that the betting evil is eliminated from their midst.

Put End to Agreement
William Marchant believed that when the Country Club was granted permission to run the race meet it was on the belief that it would do its utmost to conduct the event in the best possible manner but evidently there is something in the sport of horse racing which lends itself to a prevalence of gambling. These attendant evils have grown to such an extent that any further permission to the local business men should be immediately refused. Men of all conditions would, he was sure, welcome any action of the council which would put a termination to the race meet. While a certain measure of success may be secured by certain classes of business, the business men of the city, as a whole, are unanimous in advocating the termination of the race meet. "Blasted lives," "ruined homes," "embezzled funds," "blasted characters," and "young girls ruined," were some of the expressions used by Mr. Marchant in describing the effects of the gambling mania which he declared was now taking hold of the young men and women of the city.

A. McNeil, in urging that the council should terminate the tenure of the Country Club to the Willows track declared that only the other day he had seen young girls in their teens and young men on the streets who were betting on the horses which they intended to bet upon and on the streets it has become an every day occurrence to see young boys dining on potatoes and bread and butter, and having no chance to make money by betting. These young persons, knowing that the city has allowed the Country Club to hold a race meet here, are having a moral fibre warped by the action of the council and they conclude that betting is proper.

No Benefit From Meet.
W. H. Bone could only speak of what he had heard. He had not been at the race track, and while he believed that those who constitute the Country Club are men, highly esteemed and among the leading men of the city, still it has been beneficial from the standpoint of either the material or moral welfare of the young people of the city. Collections have not as good now as they were a year ago, and he understood that many other merchants are experiencing the same state of affairs.

R. L. Drury was another who had not been at the race track but the effects of the gambling allowed there had come straight home to him for he had been appealed to to assist a young man who had betrayed his trust owing to losses at the race track. He declared that at no time within the past twenty years have conditions in the city been as demoralizing as at present. While the members of the Country Club may be, and he believed they are, eminently

Burial of Suicides

Washington, July 12.—A misapprehension of the practice of the army and navy in regard to the burial of officers who commit suicide is given in official circles today as an answer to the report that unusual honors were accorded Lieut. James N. Sutton, of the U. S. marine corps, whose death at Annapolis in 1907 is soon to be investigated for a second time. It is declared that the universal practice is to accord military honors to an officer who takes his own life, and in the case of Lieut. Sutton, it is maintained that the authorities at Annapolis followed long established precedent.

In law at the university of Aberdeen, and took the unique opportunity which offered in the appeal in the suit mentioned of bringing the cry of "Votes for Women" into the limelight.

Only on three previous occasions have women pleaded at the bar of the House of Lords. It was Miss McMillan's first appearance in such a capacity, and her capabilities and physical stamina are illustrated by the fact that on the first day of the hearing of the appeal she spoke for four and a half hours, finishing up her argument on the second day with a speech lasting for three and a half hours. The appeal was decided against the graduates.

Since that time Miss McMillan has developed considerable ability for public speaking. As a suffragette she took various opportunities of addressing gatherings at by-elections held in England and Scotland recently. Although unattached to either of the militant organizations which keep the police of London on tenterhooks, she is yet one of the prominent figures in the woman suffrage movement, and her trip as a delegate of the International Council of Women has been in the nature of an individual crusade on behalf of the right of her sex to the franchise.

As a speaker, Miss McMillan, doubtless due to her university training, has a studied style, her points being logically deduced, and her sentences well rounded off. Notwithstanding the earnestness with which she regards the subject of woman suffrage, she yet possesses the tact to at times introduce a certain levity into her utterances. She also has the power of holding her audience, as well as keeping them in good humor, and to this dual gift she adds a voice of long reach.

To Triumph.

When asked by a Colonist representative if she believed that the cause of woman suffrage would eventually triumph in England, her face lit up with a smile of perfect assurance. "Yes," she replied, "there is not the shadow of a doubt that we will get the vote eventually."

"Is there any sign of the time which marks any special advance in your cause?"

"Why, yes," said Miss McMillan. "I was reading in your papers only a few days ago that the Home Secretary, Mr. Gladstone, had received a deputation from the woman suffrage movement. You know that the militant suffragettes have been trying to interview the Prime Minister, Mr. Asquith, or some one of the other ministers for a long time past, and have always been driven back by the police. This interview with Mr. Gladstone is a great step gained. Of course, it followed upon a petition which was presented to the King, and the King advised the minister to see a deputation, but notwithstanding this, it is a most important step in advance."

"Then the press of London, when the movement started, always reported things in a bad light. The suffragettes were called hooligans and the shrieking sisterhood. But all this is changing. Now the suffragettes are often alluded to as ladies, and this has been brought about by their courage in facing ridicule, abuse, and misrepresentation."

"Votes for women," concluded Miss McMillan, is one of the planks of the International council of women. We as a body are working towards that end, and an end which is within measurable reach of attainment."

Miss Chrystabel McMillan is secretary of the committee, representing the different Scottish women's councils, which was formed with the specific purpose of watching Scottish interests.

Miss Ott de Vries

Miss Ott de Vries, of Amsterdam, is a lady who is very proud of the land where good as conditions are, she thinks they would be still better if the mothers as well as the fathers assisted in making the laws. The women would have had the franchise if the last government had continued in power.

Women in Holland have always had access to the universities and can enter any profession they wish. Miss de Vries spoke of the greatness of the colonies of her country for her people were as colonizers second only to England. These colonies afford a field for their ambitious young men as in the Dutch East Indian colonies all the doctors, engineers and lawyers come from Holland.

The women of Holland do all the dairy work and to be a good cheese-maker is a great recommendation. But this is learned at home, not in any school. Each girl does it as her mother.

There is nothing superficial in Holland. The furniture is centuries old. The women keep a good eye on their excellent servants. The women in Holland do not wait on their husbands as is the case in some other countries.

Yes, they were delighted when Queen Wilhelmina had a son. The crown would have passed away from the House of Orange if she had died without an heir.

There are great modern painters in Holland as well as wonderful old masters. Among these was Neulings, who lived in the United States. There had been a great revival of literature within the past fifteen years. Miss de Vries' work is in homes for children. For this she was trained in the Bernardino homes. Like all the others this delegate was impressed with Canada, but is not certain even of its largeness for she loves her quaint little home land.

Marchesa del Monte

The Marchesa Bourbon del Monte is through her husband connected with the exiled royal family. She comes from beautiful Florence, Italy, she says, is slow to take up new ideas and women have little share in the conduct of public affairs. This she thinks unfortunate. There are great charities which have been bequeathed or given by wealthy people for the benefit of the poor. These are administered by public boards of which all the members are men. In the old days when the Grand Duke of Tuscany ruled, women shared in this work. There has been great improvement in the trade and industry of Florence of late and the people are being taught to be more provident by insurance and other plans. Speaking of emigration the baroness said that the people of northern Italy very often return home after they have earned money in foreign countries and are able to live comfortably. The people of the south leave in greater numbers and the government does its best to prevent undesirable people from leaving home and provides all with food on their passage out. In this respect it is perhaps too generous. The baroness carried a bouquet of beautiful crimson roses which reminded her of Florence.

Canada was a land of splendid resources but it needed more men for its development. There was a danger of being wasteful and we should take care of our grand forests.

Mademoiselle Popelin

The one lawyer of the party was Mademoiselle Popelin, of Belgium, and even on a crowded street car she was kind enough to talk about the wonderful country in which she lives.

In this great hive there are no drones. The country is very rich and very busy. There is employment for all and improvement is constant. Much work goes on in the homes and lately there have been opened schools of art where the girls are taught new designs for the beautiful laces for which the country is famous.

But there are few servants in Belgium and ladies are beginning to be afraid that they must give up their large homes. Girls would rather work hard to have free evenings.

Belgium is very artistic. There are good conservatories. There is not much emigration but there is much talk of Congo, but it remains to be seen whether this gift of the King is a good thing for Belgium. Here, too, there are many painters, and women have distinguished themselves. Bertha Are, Marie Colart, Juliette Vytaman and Louise Danse (engraver) were the most. The art galleries of Brussels, Antwerp and Bruges are famous the world over. Women will not soon get votes here this lady thinks, but good laws as being made. Women have lately acquired the right of being guardians of orphan children, which was a privilege greatly desired.

A heavy shower of rain that drove the ladies from one side of the tramcar where the windows were open brought the two Canadian women and the reporter together. The beautiful young Swedish lady carried a bouquet of rare roses which had been given her by two fellow countrywomen in Vancouver. Very proud is this young lady of the success and good name which her countrymen and women win in their new homes. She spoke of the Gothenburg system by which the liquor traffic is regulated in that country. The profits of the sellers are limited to 5 per cent. all over this going to charitable purposes. Men can not buy drink without food and the public houses are very carefully regulated. There are people who think that stouter measures should be taken but, on the whole, the reform has done much good. But that the baroness has most at heart is the industrial schools which have been established by her aunt, Frau Retzins. There are 70 of these in the country, and they have worked wonders among the poor people. This lady too, things that Canada is a wonderful country, rich in all resources but warns us that our forests will not last forever unless we take care of them.

Miss Jena Krog.

Miss Jena Krog, president of the national council of the women of Norway, does not favor great emigration from her native land. She believes that in the rapid rivers of the country there is a means of industrial development that has not been developed. Unlike most women, Miss Krog believes that there can be too much temperance legislation and that more should be done with the individual. Local opinion is also against Norway. There is a lack of capital in Norway and the problem before the government is how to safeguard the resources of the country while getting foreigners to invest capital in it. In getting the franchise for women, men worked as well as women. There was no friction between them. The change came about quietly and gradually.

Miss Hansen.

Miss Hansen is a Norwegian lady who thinks Canadian women should get men to work with them. She does not believe in receptions where only women are present, that is not the Norwegian way. Men and women work together and enjoy themselves together when their work is over.

Mrs. Elizabeth B. Grannis of New York city, U. S. A., is president of the National Christian league for the promotion of pure and has been for 20 years. Among her fellow workers are Bishop Doane and Frank Morse.

Mrs. Grannis for 20 years owned and edited the Church Union of New York, an Evangelical paper which had as its contributors distinguished men of all denominations. She also owned and edited the Children's Friend and Kindergarten for seven years. Mrs. Grannis holds advanced views on many subjects and is an ardent suffragist.

Miss Buchanan

Miss Emily Buchanan, of Dublin is a young lady who has given much thought to the affairs of her country. She is of a Scotch Irish family and was born in Tyrone, though most of her life has been spent in Dublin. She is an ardent Unionist.

Since 1898, Miss Buchanan says, conditions have greatly changed in Ireland. The extension of the local franchise placed the local boards almost entirely in the hands of the Nationalists. Miss Buchanan has a seat on one of these boards in Dublin, and of 78 members there are but 10 Unionists. The consequence is that almost all the appointments are given to adherents of that party.

In each village a doctor is employed by the poor law board. He must keep a diary, and attend to the needs of the poor. After he has done this he can engage in what private practice he can obtain.

children the Irish language. This is a misfortune, as it takes time the teaching of reading and writing, so essential for these poor children, who, at the best, can receive only the most elementary education.

The National schools, to which the majority of the children go, are in need of improvement, although where the boards are progressive and rich they are very good. This is the case in some of the Dublin schools.

Miss Buchanan does not think that the cutting up of the great estates is an unmitigated blessing. It has resulted in the loss to the country of a great many educated young men. She fears that the result will be mediocrity, as the children of the peasant proprietors will not soon attain the same degree of education and refinement as the sons of the old landed proprietors.

There has been a revival of industry in the south and west, and in the homes Lady Aberdeen has done much for the women's industries. The fruits of this revival are only beginning to be felt. There is still much distress, and Miss Buchanan believes that there is not work enough for all the people. There is a great field for benevolent work and the fruits of unorganized and indiscriminate charity are seen in the hopeless pauperism of many of the people. This poverty is in sad contrast to the prosperity of this new country, where "tremendous buoyancy" has made such a strong impression on Miss Buchanan.

THE WOMEN'S COUNCIL

It is the privilege of Victoria to be able to welcome as guests a number of ladies representing the International Council of Women, which has lately been in session in Toronto. Through the courtesy of Mrs. Dunsinuir, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor, the ladies were given a formal reception at Government House last evening. We know that we voice the opinion of the whole community when we say that their visit has been looked forward to with a great deal of pleasure, and that we hope it will be productive of much profit. The Women's Council is an organization that has gained for itself an honored name. It is based upon a broad Christian spirit, and aims at the betterment of society. It is in no sense political or sectarian. Undoubtedly it is an exceedingly potent factor for good along all the lines in which it directs its influence.

Our visitors have had an opportunity of seeing Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and they have doubtless been told that the area traversed by them has only been, as it were, a ribbon stretched across the Continent. There is a great Canada south of the line which their journey has followed, and a vastly greater Canada to the north of it. From where they breakfast this morning to the northernmost point in the continental area of the Dominion is nearly two thousand miles. Across this vast extent the advance of settlement and development has been in the nature of leaps, which left vast intervening spaces untouched. The history of new countries shows the unwisdom of inferring the unknown too much from the known; but we may say that there is yet to be a part of the vast West, opened by enterprise, that has not repaid those who were instrumental in doing so. Perhaps nothing will give a better idea of the vastness of the West that awaits development than to say that, if we take the distance from this city to Fort William as a radius and describe a quarter of a circle to the north there will be embraced within it the province of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, and part of the province of Ontario, and the Territories of Yukon and Mackenzie and part of Keewatin, and that nearly all of the vast domain therein comprised is of some value agriculturally, and otherwise, and most of it of very great value. Within the circle there would be a small part of Hudson Bay, but outside of it would be the greater part of what are called the Barren Lands. If we draw a quarter circle to the south we will find that it embraces parts of Wisconsin, Iowa, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, and all of Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Idaho, Utah, Arizona, Washington, Oregon, Nevada, California and the northwestern part of Mexico. It would not be wise to weary readers with a mass of statistics showing the relative value of the two regions, for the fact just mentioned shows how enormous is the territory west of the Great Lakes, which the people of Canada have to develop as best they can.

It goes without saying that in so great a country, in one where there is so much pioneer work to be done, where the foundations of a new society are being laid, where old problems must be worked out under new conditions, there is a great work for women. We have in this unoccupied land all the appliances and advantages of the most advanced civilization, and none of the drawbacks incidental to the crowded centres of population. We are pioneers. It is true, but we are pioneers who demand hot and cold water laid on, electric light and motor cars. There never has been just such a problem of development as the Canadian West presents. The pioneers of Eastern Canada expected privations and suffered them; the pioneers of most of the Western States had hardships only less than those which attended the footsteps of the people who first settled New England. In Western Canada the pioneer takes with him not only all modern appliances, but settled political conditions, under which law is administered with a firmness and impartiality exceeded nowhere on the globe. The Canadian West is a country where there is hardly such a thing as poverty, as it is understood in older lands, but every opportunity for amassing wealth. Its conditions are unique.

No one may claim to be wise enough to foresee how the problems presented by such a country will be worked out; but we can all feel very sure that their solution will be satisfactory. If there is brought to bear upon it the altruistic spirit, which animates the Women's Councils. Our visitors will see that the women of the West have of necessity an outlook that is somewhat different from theirs. Western women only know from hearsay of the conditions, which make the social questions of Europe, and to some extent of Eastern America, so exceedingly difficult. It has been said that all questions, political or social, solve themselves in a land where opportunities are limitless, and while we are not so optimistic as to believe this, we may truthfully say that the existence of such opportunities gives rise to questions in a certain degree different from those that arise in older lands, and certainly suggest that their full utilization might give relief to the congested centres of the Old World. We do not propose that the West ought to be made a dumping ground for the criminal and the incompetent, for that is out of the question. It might, however, be made to afford a chance to those for whom there seems in the Old World to be no other avenue of progress than those that lead downward. There are millions in Europe whose constant and honest effort is to keep from slipping backwards, and the message we would send back by the European delegates is that, if the wealthy classes of the crowded countries would employ a part of their resources in sending to Canada people who are fit to become colonists in a land where hard work is the only sure passport to success, they would in some measure relieve the distress, which is such a burden to more than one state. But we would also impress upon them that this new land is no place for the laggard, the ne'er-do-well, or the man who expects to be helped at every turn, and it will not tolerate the criminal classes. The people of the West are absolutely opposed to state assisted immigration, but a carefully framed plan whereby desirable emigrants could be placed in homes and be helped over the first few years by private benevolence would unquestionably produce good results.

IMMIGRATION.

From a little pamphlet issued by the superintendent of immigration, we learn that since and including 1897, the number of immigrants entering Canada was 1,366,631. The largest number came in the fiscal year 1907-08, and was 262,469. Last year the number was 146,908, which was larger than any year previous, except that first named and 1905-6, when 189,064 persons entered the country as immigrants. Of the total immigration during the twelve and a half years included in the returns, 640,621 were from the United Kingdom, and 415,570 were from the United States, leaving 409,440 from other countries. While these figures show an excess of immigrants from the British Isles over those from either of the other sources, the preponderance is not as great as could be wished, and the returns seem to indicate that British immigration may in future take a second place. In the year 1907-08 there were 120,182 immigrants from the United Kingdom, 58,312 from the United States, and 83,175 from Continental Europe. In 1908-09 the figures were: From the United Kingdom, 52,901; from the United States, 59,832; and from Continental Europe, 34,175. A footnote to the returns says that 43 per cent. of the immigrants from the United States made homestead entries, and brought with them to the country $52,000,000 in cash and settlers' effects. Very significant is the fact that since 1897, 44,448 immigrants from the United Kingdom have taken up homesteads, whereas 72,825 immigrants from the United States have done so, and 46,619 from Continental Europe. It is not pleasant to learn that settlers from the United Kingdom come third on such a list as this. Of the homesteaders from the British Isles 33,471 were from England, 8,773 from Scotland, and 3,254 from Ireland. While the total immigration into the country is satisfactory in point of numbers, we could wish that a larger proportion were made up of people from the Mother Country. Why it is not seems to be a fit subject for inquiry.

OPENING THE DOOR.

The Dominion government has passed an order in council relating to Chinese immigration, which seems likely to lead to a large influx of people from China into Canada without the payment of any head tax. On the face of the new regulations they seem to broaden the exemptions very materially. The definitions of the term "student" seem wide enough to admit almost any one. A student, who comes here to study anything calling for a special training, technical or otherwise, is exempt. A person who comes here and goes to a "recognized" school for two and a half years, has his head tax refunded. Some ingenuity will be necessary to prevent such provisions from being greatly abused. All the provisions in respect to students are capable of wide construction; but even taking them in their most restricted meaning, they make it possible for many Chinese to secure a footing in the country. Indeed, one may say that the new regulations open the way wide for the free admission of Chinese intending to remain in the country and engage in almost any occupation. The enlargement of the time within which a Chinaman, who has a right to return to this country, may return, from a year to eighteen months, provided he produces proof that he was unable to come back sooner because of ill-health, is not unreasonable. The free admission of the sons of merchants, provided they are under the age of thirty years, their wives and children, and the wives and children of persons of Chinese origin born in Canada is an exceedingly broad privilege. Taking the new regulations as a whole they appear to be so framed as to render the Chinese exclusion law largely of no effect. Under the most restricted construction that can be put upon them they provide for a large immigration free of taxation from China, and in this respect they are contrary to the spirit of the policy under which the exclusion of Chinese was demanded by the people of British Columbia.

The report that the Grand Trunk Pacific has ordered the construction of a fast passenger steamer to ply between Prince Rupert and Victoria by way of Vancouver is intrinsically probable.

Mrs. Frederick Vanderbilt gave a lady in London a splendid jewel, which the latter admired as they sat together at dinner. The recipient of the gift at first refused, but finally took it. As an exhibition of absolutely bad taste it would be difficult to surpass this, and we do not know who showed the worse, the giver or the taker.

On Sunday we ventured to say that while the gasoline motor was being used for a variety of agricultural purposes, it had not yet supplanted the cow. But alas, for the frailty of human hopes! Yesterday the despatches said that petroleum butter had been placed on the market. Next thing we know, a farmer will hitch up his motor to his plough, and when his day's work is done, not only have the whole countryside ready for a crop, but will take out of the machine a lot of petrol butter as a by-product.

Just now the city of Vancouver is congratulating itself upon the fact that a number of railway companies are considering it as a terminal point. The move is very good. We have not a word to say in objection. But it may be just as well to point out the fact that very little business, except the supply of the local population, originates in Vancouver. Its present supremacy is not due to inherent reasons, but solely to the fact that the Canadian Pacific Railway company made its terminus there. Everything that Vancouver ships east or west, north or south, has to be brought there from some place else, and much of it at a cost that would be a good profit, if means were provided whereby it could reach a market by some other route. This is not said in any spirit of hostility to Vancouver, for we feel none; but the time has come when the development of the province of British Columbia must take other things into account than the fact that Vancouver is our biggest city. Vancouver's greatest industry, the one that has made it a city of importance, is its manufacture of lumber, and yet there are many places on the British Columbia coast where lumber can be manufactured under more favorable circumstances than on Burrard Inlet, if railway connections were provided.

The Colonist would not care to go as far as one of its contemporaries and say that prohibition has been a conspicuous failure. This is a question upon which no general statement can be made. There are places where the failure has been lamentable; there are others where prohibition has been a success. Failure has resulted usually from two causes. One of them is that the legislation was premature, and any law is premature unless public sentiment will demand its enforcement. Another has been the abandonment of moral suasion as soon as the sale of intoxicants was prohibited by law. It would perhaps be unsafe to say of any state or province that prohibition has been either a success or a failure, but undoubtedly it would be very easy to point out many localities, in which it has been a conspicuous success. As a rule these are rural localities, where public sentiment demands that the law should be respected and where the work of inculcating the principles of temperance was not abandoned after prohibition was enacted. It is too soon yet to say whether or not the prohibition wave in the United States will break into useless foam or be a dominating force in the nation. No one is in a position to judge, because no one is able to take a bird's eye view of the situation. Neither can any one tell what this movement, if followed up by an active campaign for abstinence from the use of liquor, will result in. There is a very remarkable change coming over the United Kingdom, Canada and the United States in respect to the use of intoxicating liquors, and he would be a rash man who would profess to be able to see to what it will lead.

The Unconquerable Foo

John Bright once described the variety of stage fright with which he was familiar with telling and quotable point. He was discussing public speaking with George Dawson, an eminent Englishman of his day, when according to a paragraph in the late David Christie Murray's "Recollections," he said: "Tell me, friend George, you have, I suppose, as large an experience in public speaking as any man in England. Have you any acquaintance with the old nervous tremor?" "No," Dawson replied, "or if I have it is a more momentary quail, which is gone before I can realize it." "Now for my part," said the great tribune, "I have had practice enough, but I have never risen to address an audience, large or small, without experiencing a shaking at the knees and a sense of a scientific vacuum behind the waistcoat."

NEWS OF THE CITY

Parks Board to Meet.

The regular monthly meeting of the parks board will be held tomorrow afternoon at the city hall.

Many Drunks

There was a long list of drunks facing the magistrate yesterday morning. There were seven of them, all of whom were Indians and one a Sikh. They all pleaded guilty.

School Board Meets.

The regular monthly meeting of the school board will be held tomorrow evening, when, among other matters, will be considered the tenders for the new school to be erected on Moss street.

Baraca Class

The regular monthly business meeting of the men's Baraca Bible class, of the First Baptist church, will be held in Victoria hall on Wednesday evening at 7.30, 14th inst. All members are urgently requested to be present.

Chief of Police Away

Chief of Police Langley is taking his annual holiday, and while away he will take in the annual convention of chiefs of police, which is being held at Niagara. In his absence Capt. Palmer is in charge of the police force.

More Permits Issued

Building permits have been issued by the building inspector to Roderick McCallum for a dwelling to be erected on Marion street, to cost $2,000; to Edward Gillman, for a dwelling on McPherson street, to cost $2,300; to D. E. Whitaker, for a dwelling on Richardson street, to cost $2,600.

New Members Elected.

Four new members were admitted at the last regular meeting of the woman's auxiliary of the St. Andrew's society, held last week in Sir William Wallace hall, and a vote of thanks was passed to Mrs. Murray, whose beautiful home, "Maple Hurst," was the scene of the recent successful garden party given under the auspices of the society.

Bad Boys in Court

Five mischievous youngsters were brought before the juvenile court yesterday, charged with damaging a house belonging to D. H. Bale, which is in the course of construction. It seems that they, or some of them, have been running about in the attic every once in a while, breaking through the ceiling of the room below. They were eventually dismissed with a lecture and a caution. They ranged in age from eight to eleven years.

Charge is Dismissed

In the police court yesterday Magistrate Jay dismissed the information laid against Lee Chung Hop charging him with wilfully obstructing the sheriff while in the execution of his duty as a public officer. His worship expressed the opinion that the offence had been magnified, and there was no evidence of obstruction, which would justify him in convicting on a criminal charge. F. Davis prosecuted, and R. C. Lowe defended.

Full List of Council.

At the recent annual meeting of the board of trade, the following members were elected to serve on the council of the board for the coming year: J. L. Beckwith, George Carter, James Forman, Richard Hall, D. R. Kerr, C. H. Lugin, B. C. Mess, John A. Turner, H. B. Thomson, J. J. Shalleross, C. F. Todd, T. W. Paterson, John Nelson, A. W. McCurdy, J. A. Mara. In publishing the names of the council members in a recent issue of the Colonist, several names were inadvertently omitted. Two new members were also elected to the board, R. W. Coleman and William Blakemore.

Off for Convention

Chief of Police Langley left on Sunday afternoon to attend the annual sessions of the Canadian Chief Constables' association, which meets at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont. The association, which is composed of the chiefs of police throughout the Dominion, is found along the same lines as the International Chiefs of Police association, which is composed of the chiefs of Canada and the States. At its annual sessions papers are read dealing with police problems and the discussion which follows has always proved instructive and conducive to the better association of the various police departments throughout the country. Chief Langley will be absent for a month or six weeks.

Found Dead in Bed

No inquest will be held by Coroner Hart into the circumstances of the death of Arthur McCoy, who was found dead in bed in a rooming house on Johnson street early Sunday morning. The circumstances of the case were such that it was evident that death was the result of natural causes. McCoy was latterly employed as a plumber by Colbert & Co., plumbers, Broughton street. Some time ago he was an inmate of the hospital, where he underwent an operation for stomach trouble. He was well known here, having resided in Victoria off and on for the past few years. About a year ago he returned from San Francisco. He was an Irishman by birth, his relatives residing at Dublin. Deceased was a member of Victoria West Lodge, No. 17, Knights of Pythias, under the auspices of which the funeral arrangements will be made.

Poachers Still Busy

According to Capt. Hansen, of the cod fishing schooner Dora Blumh, which has returned to San Francisco, at least two Japanese sealers are engaged in poaching on preserved rockeries, and when the Blumh left Northwest harbor the revenue cutter Perry was out searching for the little brown poachers. The Dora Blumh brought $5,000 codfish. Captain Hansen reports the fish running very small this season in the vicinity of Northwest harbor.

Notice to Mariners

The agent of marine and fisheries designed to give notice that owing to the occulting light at Discovery Island being out of order, a fixed white light will be shown for the present and until further notice.

A rock with eleven feet over it at low water exists about the middle of Alexandra patch, Chatham Sound, four miles south, 50 degrees east, from Victoria Island light house. Latitude north, 54 degrees 14 feet 17 inches, longitude west, 130 degrees, 33 feet 42 inches. The rock is of small extent, there being eight and nine fathoms water within a radius of 100 feet. It is marked by a small quantity of kelp, which is seldom visible owing to the strong tidal streams.

NEW PASSENGER STEAMER FOR G.T.P.

Report Comes From England
That Contract Has Been Given to Tyne Firm

A fast passenger steamer for the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad company's steamship service between Victoria, Vancouver and Prince Rupert, is being built by a British ship-building firm on the Tyne, according to advices received here in a letter from England. The writer says: "I understand the G. T. P. has given the contract for its fast passenger steamer to a well known Tyne firm and that the building of the steamer has commenced. It is presumed that the firm is Swan Hunter and Wigham Richardson, the builders of the Mauretania, who also built the steamer Princess Victoria, fastest steamer now in Pacific waters which made the run between Seattle and Victoria a few days ago in less than three hours."

That the building of a fast steamer for the service of the railroad company building across the Dominion to Prince Rupert to run between Victoria, Vancouver and Prince Rupert to connect with the terminus of the railroad has been considered for some time is well known to those conversant with the affairs of the Grand Trunk Pacific company, but local officials, who are connected with the building of the river steamer fleet being completed for the railroad company's service had not been informed of the ordering of a fast passenger steamer.

When the question of a steamship service for the Grand Trunk Pacific was discussed by officials of the railroad company, it was stated that a steamer would likely be a King of the Sea of similar model to the Princess May would likely be secured, equipped with more powerful machinery to give speed of at least 19 knots an hour.

ogony, a blend of motherliness and artistic education, which at once attracts the eye of an observer. As a speaker she possesses most engaging methods, and these she has employed to advantage, not only at the International Council meetings at Toronto, but also at the different receptions given to the delegates during their trip across the Dominion.

Mrs. Dobson has been one of the moving spirits in the Commonwealth Council of Women movement ever since its inception. To her executive ability and readiness to work is due much of its success. And although the years are beginning to weigh heavily upon her, she is yet eagerly evolving schemes for the broadening of woman's work in the great tract of territory which lies between the Southern Cross. If she is the best Australian womanhood, there is no fear for the future of that portion of the British Empire.

To a Colonist representative, Mrs. Dobson gave some interesting details of woman's work in Australasia. In Tasmania, she said, in connection with the woman's council, there are education bureaus for the training of children. She believed that a similar institution existed in Denmark. Its object was to train the children, both in education and employment. In her opinion these methods should be adopted in every country, so that children emigrating from one country to another might find corresponding influences at work which would assist them in obtaining work away from home.

Upon the subject of woman suffrage Mrs. Dobson entertains engaging views. She pointed out that women had the vote not only in the federal parliament of Australia but also in the different state legislatures. As far as she had been able to judge, the vote had been used wisely, and had in no way interfered with the work of womanhood in the home. Women voting had been instrumental in the passage of laws ameliorating social conditions. Those who argued against woman suffrage had said that if it were granted, the refined portion of society would not go to the polls. This had been disproved in the Commonwealth. The result had been that the polls, from being associated with riotous behaviour, had become orderly. Another argument of the anti-suffragists was that married women would vote as their husbands told them. Nothing of the kind had taken place, except in labor circles. The better educated people had been forced to vote in order to protect themselves.

In Australia now, Mrs. Dobson said,

Lagan, past vice-president, and Mrs. McNaughton, the convener of the committee on arrangements, with other helpers, were present all day to assist and direct their guests.

When lunch was served the delegates appeared, looking wonderfully bright and fresh after their long journey. Each wore a badge with her name and most had other emblems showing they were council women. There were differences in costume but these were not very marked. It was only when the ladies spoke that one knew they were foreign and then their fluency made some Canadians the women had formed political circles, to which leading men both in power and in opposition were invited to speak on all the burning questions of the day. The women were leaving no stone unturned to obtain a political education.

Talking of the work accomplished by the international council, the Australian delegate said that one of the most vital questions dealt with was the war against tuberculosis, and the best methods to employ in fighting the dread disease. A practical result achieved was the collection of statistics from the different health bureaus of the world showing a compilation of the deaths due to the white scourge. In connection with these, the climatic conditions will be considered by the women's councils, and the data gleaned may lead to some tangible method, hitherto untried, of mitigating the disease.

Mrs. Dobson represents five Australian women's councils, which, for all executive purposes, were perfectly distinct bodies.

Reception in Vancouver
A very busy, bustling place was Dunsmuir hotel, where the delegates from the International Congress of Women were the guests of the citizens of Vancouver on Sunday morning.

Yet, thanks to the foresight of Mrs. Willoughby, Cumming, the international secretary, and Mrs. Day, there had been no anticipation. But one lady was heard to lament the non-arrival of her trunk and even that was soon forthcoming. Still it was almost noon before each guest was settled in the room allotted to her.

The Vancouver ladies were perfect hostesses. Everywhere they were to be seen smiling and trying to anticipate the wants of their visitors. Mrs. Griffin, the president; Mrs. McAuley, Mrs. McLean, Mrs. White, Mrs. Mc-

AGED COUPLE BURNED IN HOME

Man and Wife in Long Island Village
Believed to Have Been Robbed and Incinerated By Burglars

New York, July 12.—An aged couple who lived on the outskirts of the village of Patchogue, L. I., supported by a weekly allowance from a son in New York, were burned to death in their beds early yesterday. The victims were Townsend Garrity, 79 years old, and his wife, who was past 70. The police are disposed to believe that the old people were victims of a robber and incendiarism. Neighbors think that a lamp which Mr. and Mrs. Garrity kept burning in their bedroom all night may have started the fire. When the firemen arrived from the village, a quarter of a mile away, they found Peter Zetklatitch, the landlord, who lived on the first floor, outside the house and the doors locked. He was arrested and held till the case is cleared up, although his account of the fire and his escape by jumping through the window is accepted as a credible explanation.

Standard Oil Now Has a Fine Line of
Petroleum Butter to Displace Old-Fashioned Kind

Chicago, July 12.—A special from Alton, Ill., to the Record-Herald says: "The first roll of petroleum butter, the Standard Oil's latest product, is to be turned out at the Wood Refinery, near here. Preparations are being made to manufacture the product here and the machinery has been shipped. The new product will be known as 'petrol butter.' It is said to be of the same consistency as lactated butter, but brown in color. It lasts a great deal longer than real butter. It is said, and does not become rancid."

Mrs. Thaw Will Testify.
New York, July 12.—Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw is expected to be a witness for her husband, Harry K. Thaw, at the inquiry into his present mental condition, resumed before Justice Mills in the supreme court at White Plains today. Although she had intended starting on a vacation to Maine today, she informed representatives of Thaw's attorneys that she would gladly postpone her trip, to testify for her husband. "I will stick by him as a wife should stick by her husband," she said today, "and I have always stuck by him. It is my duty and I shall not shrink from it now."

BEACON HILLS DEFEAT STUDENTS

Large Crowd Witness Good
Ball of Intermediate Series

Kasey's Kolts grabbed one more game in the intermediate series last evening when they defeated the High School nine by 11 to 5, making four straight wins for the Beacon Hill cranks.

A large crowd was on hand to see the game and classy ball was the order, the teams playing neck and neck all the way.

At the end of the fourth inning both nines were tied, having secured two trips around the sacks. In the fifth the Students got one in the lead and when the Irishman's team came to bat they did things, and they didn't stop going until five runs were registered. Scott, Gravin and Meldrom each got a two-bagger, while Twin Tom Kasey got one that was good for three sacks. Johnny Meldrom created a sensation in the eighth when he grabbed a fly that looked to be good for two bases and Lang and Townsley each made a put-out. Steele pitched a great game for the High School, while Fred Terrault's work for the Hills was up to the notch in every detail.

Grand Duchess Now Abbess.
St. Petersburg, July 12.—The Grand Duchess Elizabeth, widow of the murdered Grand Duke Sergius and sister of the Czarina, has formally founded at Moscow an Order of White Nuns, and accepted the dignity of abbess of the convent.

Everything connected with the convent—buildings, furniture and the dress of the inmates is pure white. The order will be chiefly devoted to works of charity.
The Grand Duchess has spent large sums of money in establishing the nunnery, where she lives in a simple but well furnished cell.

FALLS FROM TRAIN SAVES DIAMONDS

New York, July 12.—After he had been received in a hospital Saturday Samuel Lowry, a diamond merchant, who fell from a New York Central train while coming through the Harlem station at 30 miles an hour, felt for his pockets hysterically and asked if his diamonds had been found.

Doctors drew from his pockets several packages containing $18,000 worth of diamonds, but Lowry said there were more, as he had had two large stones in a small pocket of his coat. While he was describing them the police arrived at the hospital with the missing gems, a passenger having found them.

Hatpins Cause Damage

Paris, July 12.—The frequency of accidents caused by hatpins worn by Parisiennes in their enormous headgear has aroused much indignation among the public. During the scenes on the race course at Auteuil recently several persons received injuries from these weapons.

Among the victims during the last few days are two shop girls and a conductor of a "tube" train, who is now in the hospital. Each of the victims will probably lose the sight of one eye.

Difficult to Fill Offices

Helsingfors, July 12.—The Czar having accepted the resignation of the Finnish senators, as a protest against certain of his decrees, Finland is left without a supreme court of appeal or a supreme legislative body. Further, the governor-general finds difficulty in filling the vacancies, as all Finns professing the constitutional faith refuse to take office until the Czar shows more respect for the constitution. As a consequence of this passive resistance a dozen or so posts are going begging.

OARSMEN SORE ON TREATMENT

Vancouver and Victoria Athletes Received Poor Accommodation at Seattle

FINISHING LINE WAS A JOKE

Local Rowers Had to Pull Three Miles Before Each Race

Both the Victoria and Vancouver oarsmen who went over to Seattle to take part in the N.P.A.A.O. regatta are complaining of the way they were treated when on the other side.

The J. B. A. athletes are all thoroughbred sports right to the core, but they can hardly be blamed for kicking against the treatment they received in the first place, the locals were supposed to be the guests of the Algonquin Rowing Club, as in previous years, but upon their arrival in Seattle they were notified that the Algonquians had no room for them, so they had to stay at a down town hotel, leaving the shells at Madrona park.

The Vancouver-oarsmen were accommodated with an ancient boathouse on Lake Washington that was minus a roof, and when the rain fell on Saturday afternoon their headquarters was anything but cheerful.

From where the J. B. A. boys were to the starting point is a distance of over three miles, and think of the paddling the locals had to do before they got on the mark. Enough to tire even the most hearty athlete. On Saturday afternoon, the day of the Buchanan Cup race, the boys had to make this long row before the race, and as the rain was falling hard and the waters of the lake were very rough, the shell became swamped on three occasions, and the boys who won the junior championship the day before were forced to land and bale out their craft.

The laying out of the finishing buoys was another big blunder of the committee in charge.

On the mornings of the regatta, both Friday and Saturday, there were several motor boat races, and for these events three buoys had been spread out over the finish line. One of these the committee failed to remove when the rowing races were called in the afternoon, and as the events had to be finished between two of the buoys, there was still one left in view. It is an easy matter for an athlete in competition to get mixed up, and both Kennedy and Des Brisley rowed between the wrong buoys. The Nelson oarsman, however, was behind when he finished, but Kennedy was a full six lengths ahead, but by going between the wrong flags, the game J. B. A. athlete lost the junior championship of the Pacific northwest.

SHORT, SNAPPY SPORTS

Hamilton sports think a great deal of Bobby Kerr the crack sprinter who holds the 220-yard record. In spite of his defeat by Walker on July 3, the easterners are confident that Bobby can take the South African's measure, and they will personally dig up the necessary wherewithal to send him to Seattle to compete against Walker at the A. Y. P. meet.

The executive of the Victoria lacrosse club will hold a meeting at 8 o'clock this evening at the Victoria sporting goods company.

Young Corbett will come back into the pugilistic limelight when he meets Johnny Frayne Saturday at Frisco.

In the five-a-side soccer tournament at the Scottish sports on Saturday the following teams will most likely be seen in action: Empress, Algerines, North Ward, Victoria West, Shearwater and Esquimalt.

Once again a Ketchel-Papke fight will be billed as a pugilistic attraction. The Britt-Nelson feud was considered to be the most repeated series on the map, but if Ketchel and Papke meet again in August it will be the fifth time they exchanged jabs.

It used to be a case of sour grapes, but now-a-days the foxes get the grapes. Look at Philadelphia Jack O'Brien.

The B. C. A. U. athletic meet will be held on August 7 for the first and second man in each race will be eligible to go to Vancouver to try for the B. C. championships.

Tomorrow at Los Angeles one of the greatest carnivals held on the coast will be started as the Elks are having a big reunion. An extensive athletic meet is to be held for the Pacific Coast championships. The Olympic club of San Francisco is sending a team of 25 athletes to compete in the field events, boxing, wrestling and swimming, and some amateur events are bound to be broken.

Harry Elliott, who captained the California Poppies when that soccer team toured British Columbia a few months ago, has taken up track athletics in the south and is making good at the 220 and 440 yards.

Canadian Trap Championship. Winnipeg, July 12.—In the trap shooting tournament today, J. Houghton won the Canadian championship.

INTERMEDIATE TEAMS TO FORM

Meeting Called for Tomorrow Evening to Formulate Lacrosse League

Lacrosse will not be allowed to die down in Victoria, and the good old fashioned way of bringing up the younger fellows at the national game will be resorted to.

An intermediate league will soon be formed, and probably three teams will enter. At least two twelve will compete, as North Wad and Victoria West twelve will get into action.

Another junior league series between local teams would be a good thing for the bettering of lacrosse in Victoria. Double headers could be played on Saturday afternoons, and would be quite an attraction especially as there is no lacrosse being played here at present.

The senior team could then get material from the intermediate, who could feed from the junior teams.

A mammoth meeting of lacrosse players, senior, intermediates, junior and juveniles will be called tomorrow evening at the Victoria Sporting Goods Company, Douglas street. Any one who is at all interested in the national pastime, either as a player or supporter, is invited to the meeting, as this is about the best possible way to get the local lads playing the best game that ever originated.

If the kids and boys play the game, so will the young men, and in this way available material for a senior team can be worked into condition. So buck up, all lacrosse fans, and do what you can to encourage the game along.

VANCOUVER COPS LEAVE FOR ATHLETIC MEETS

Vancouver, July 12.—Police Chief Chamberlain, accompanied by Jack and Duncan Gillis, the two well known athletes of the police force, will leave for Winnipeg tonight, where the athletes will enter the competitions of the police athletes of Canada. The chief will attend the annual meeting of the police chiefs in Niagara. The Gillis cousins will also compete in the contests at Ottawa, Toronto and Hamilton.

After their return to Vancouver they will likely enter the international athletic contests, which are to be pulled off in Seattle this fall. Many people believe Jack Gillis competent to take the measure of Sheridan, the all-around champion of America. Sheridan is conceded to be best in the weights, but it is believed Gillis' superior speed and jumping ability will win for him on the averages.

UMPIRE DIGS UP AWFUL ANCIENT RULE

Louisville, Ky. July 12.—Local experts on baseball technicalities agree that a decision by Umpire Clarence Owens here, which gave Louisville the winning run, is unique. Pletz was at bat for Louisville with two on bases. McCurdy, pitcher for Toledo, decided to give Pletz his base. Three wide ones were thrown to Pletz and before the fourth was pitched, Catcher Land, of Toledo, deliberately stepped "out of line" and received an exceptionally wide throw. Owens promptly called it a balk and signalled Sullivan on third to come in with what proved to be Louisville's winning run. The rule on which Owens bases his decision was passed six years ago and had never been called into force before.

Pitcher's Hard Luck. Jersey City, July 12.—Lafitte, of the Providence eastern league team, today pitched a no-hit game against the Jersey City team, but lost the contest by a 1-0 score.

THE COFFEE AND DOUGHNUT PUG

(By Jay Ess)

When Muggsy McGraw was an amateur, Simon pure, Always sure, Before they got hep to his wonderful rep. He never had met defeat; By beating all of the younger pugs. He'd gathered dozens of silver mugs. He won every bout by the knockout route. His battles were short and sweet.

When Muggsy McGraw was a young champion, Not a bean. Had he seen; He got not a cent, though his nose was bent, And his lumps put out of commission. And somebody said "There's a pile of dough waiting for you in the ring, I know; All you have to do to make them come through Is show them you're in condition."

So the kid decided he'd be a pro. Started slow. Don't you know. They featured him in a short prelim. With a middle-aged has-washer. He did quite well for a round or so. Then, somehow or other, he stubbed his toe. The lights went out and they stopped the bout.

"We will give a prize, consisting of a plush-mounted photograph of Kid Foley for the nearest guess as to what the last line would have been had it not died in its infancy."

MARSH WILL RUN THREE SAILOR LADS

Bremerton, July 12.—John D. Marsh, holder of the world's professional marathon record, has made arrangements for a 10-mile handicap race to be run at Athletic park, Bremerton, on next Saturday, his opponents to be three fleet runners of the cruiser Tennessee, who are to divide the ten miles among them. The names of the three sailor athletes have not been given out. No purse has been put up as yet, but the sailors of the Tennessee will have all kinds of money to offer that their trio can beat the fleet-footed Marathoner. As Saturday afternoon is a holiday in the navy yard a large crowd will probably witness the contest.

ARCHIBALD RODE TWENTY WINNERS IN ELEVEN DAYS

During the past week Jockey George Archibald has jumped from fifth to second position in the list of winning riders at the Oak Bay track, and is now close on the heels of Brooks, the leader. The latter was set down by the judges on Saturday and will not be seen in the saddle for at least a week. The chances of Archibald passing Brooks and assuming the lead during the present week are very good. Archibald is riding in splendid form just now and on account of his cleverness in the saddle, the book-makers are laying extremely short odds against his mounts. Archibald, although he has been riding but eleven days at the local track, has piloted twenty winners, nine seconds and eight thirds.

Jockey Coburn, fresh from the Texas circuit made his debut on Friday, and his riding so far has been of the gilt edge order. He is alert at the post, and can put up a strong finish.

COMPANY HANDS CITY ULTIMATUM

B. C. Electric Has Gone Limit
in Matter of Jordan River
Development Scheme

Unless the city and the B. C. Electric company get together on the Jordan river power development proposition on or before the 20th inst., and the final proposal of the company is accepted by the city all negotiations are off. After hanging fire for months the draft agreement between the company and the city was adopted recently by the city, some changes suggested by the city barrister, being inserted. This amended agreement was submitted to the company and has been returned. The company accepts the changes as suggested by the city barrister with the exception of one clause, clause 6, relating to the point of the city granting aid to another company and providing that no aid raised upon the credit of the city shall be given. This alteration is objected to by the company which evidently wishes a positive assurance that no other concern shall be added by the city in any way, in opposition to the company.

The company believes that by the insertion of the above words it would not receive the same protection in Victoria as is given in Vancouver. A. T. Goward, local manager of the company, in referring to the agreement, points out that practically all the city's changes have been accepted by the company which only asks that the situation here shall be the same as that in Vancouver and arrangements for future development have been based upon that understanding.

A special meeting of the council will be held some evening this week when the city barrister will be present and the agreement will be again taken up.

Navigation Blocked.

Appropos of the difficulty which the city is experiencing with the B. & N. railway company relative to the closing of a public right of way over the bridge, Thomas Sorby, secretary of the Inner Harbor association, wrote calling attention to the fact that the railway company ignores the right of shipping to the free navigation of the waters of the harbor, and in direct contravention of Sec. 179 of the Railway act, absolutely refuses to open the bridge to the passage of a vessel within half an hour of the approach of a train and whenever it may interfere with shunting operations, the delivery of coal to bunkers or the making up of trains. Mr. Sorby suggests that the city and the Inner Harbor association should co-operate to assist the trade of the port, the maintenance of its right to free navigation and the benefit of commerce. The communication will be tabled until the B. & N. Railway company is heard from in answer to the letter sent by Mayor Hall suggesting some temporary arrangements relative to foot traffic across the bridge.

The suggestion of Water Commissioner Raymur that a quantity of material at the Smith's Hill reservoir be sold, brought forth the question from Alderman Turner why the material should be sold when perhaps a new reservoir will have to be built. Alderman Turner wanted to know if there was any late information as to the leak. He believed the council is entitled to an official report on the condition of the reservoir.

Alderman Bishop referred to the many reports in circulation and urged that the public doubt be allayed.

Will Show Council

Alderman Henderson stated that in a day or two Arthur L. Adams, the city's water expert, would take the aldermen over the whole waterworks system and show them the whole thing when they would doubtless be in a better position to see for themselves just what has been done. Tenders for the laying of the Wharf street pavement with vitrified brick were received from H. W. A. Canona and Messrs. Sabin & Stephen. In neither case was the total estimate cost submitted and the tenders will have to be submitted to a committee composed of Mayor Hall, Aldermen Henderson and Turner and the city engineer and purchasing agent to figure them out and report.

The city engineer and city assessor reported that the cost of laying a wood block pavement on Government street from Piquard street to Discovery street will be $27,540, of which the city's share will be $9,180. On the question of the city bearing a share of the cost of moving back a number of poles on the street the suggestion of the city engineer that the city should bear one-third of the cost if city wires are on the poles will be left over for further consideration.

The annual tax bylaw, fixing the rate at twenty-six and one half mills was put through its various stages. The bylaw provides for 12½ mills for general purposes, nine mills for debt, one mill for board of health and hospital purposes and four mills for school purposes.

The Esquimalt waterworks expropriation bylaw and the bylaw to repeal the parks bylaw will be brought up at the special meeting this week. The bylaw to pave Cormorant street with granite, between Store street and Government street, was given its final reading.

As a result of an inquiry held by the council the pond on property of the B. C. Electric company, on lot 54, Spring Ridge, was declared a nuisance and the company given fifteen days within which time to fill it up. Also a stable at the southeast corner of Yates street and Vancouver street was condemned as a nuisance by the sanitary inspector and the medical health officer and the B. C. Market company, the lessees, and Fraser & Co., agents for the owners, were given one week to abate the nuisance.

The streets committee report was adopted.

Rogers

The funeral of the late Joseph James Rogers, who died in St. Joseph's hospital after an illness extending over six months, will take place tomorrow at 4 o'clock. The late Mr. Rogers was a native of New York and 48 years of age. At one time he was a judge at Skagway, and was a member of Skagway lodge of Elks, No. 431. The local members of that order will have charge of the funeral arrangements. The late gentleman is survived by a wife and sister. The funeral for a considerable time has sung for the illustrated songs at Pantages theatre.

feel a sense of shame that in this matter the education of Europeans so far surpassed their own.

At half past two the ladies had changed their costumes and appeared in the beautifully decorated drawing-room, where a reception was held.

Mrs. Griffin, the president of the local council, read a short but most appropriate address, in which she welcomed the delegates as members of a great sisterhood, whose mission it was to bring the golden rule to apply to every phase of life. She welcomed them as women workers whose influence was world wide. She hoped the meetings had been helpful and that they would return full of inspiration to work in the good causes of which their hearts were full.

Mrs. Willoughby Cummings answered

Jardine welcomed the visitors, regretting much that they had so short a time to stay. Miss Jane, the president of the British National union, responded, thanking the people of Westminster for their royal welcome, alluding to the wonderful natural resources and progressive spirit of the west.

The party were then taken by Alderman Jardine to the Brunette saw-mill, where they saw a giant log lifted from the water and sawn into planks.

Then, with but a glance, they hurried away again to find in Vancouver a number of automobiles generously lent by the citizens and were taken round the park after which they enjoyed an outdoor luncheon.

Before leaving for Westminster the party was joined by Mrs. C. E. Cooper, president of the local council and Mrs. Jenkins who came over on the morning boat to welcome the delegates. At 1:30 o'clock the party left by the Charming for Victoria. Where so much was crowded into so short a time. The work Miss Williams is specially interested in is the sending out of young ladies, daughters of clergymen, doctors and lawyers to the colonies. These girls are gentlewomen, well educated and in every way well equipped for the battle of life. But at home they have no opportunities. Miss Williams drew a graphic word picture of the dreariness of life in a country village where the young men had all gone away to seek their fortune in the great world and only the young women were left. The small round of social and parish duties did not give employment for their all. Many of these girls had come to British Columbia and had formed in the wider sphere a happiness they were strangers to at home. They preferred the country, and gentlewomen, Miss Williams says, do not object to even the hardest household tasks.

Miss Williams lives in London and the offices of her society are in the Imperial Institute. This experienced lady thinks it is a great mistake of a young English gentleman and his wife to come to the colonies without any experience. This has been found especially disastrous in South Africa. It is much better for a brother and sister to come together. Then before marriage both will have learned to understand the life in the colony.

"What I love about your country," said Miss Williams, "is its wide spaces." Your broad streets, the gar-

Welcome to Vancouver

On Sunday afternoon at the Vancouver opera house, a large crowd mostly composed of the fair sex, gathered to give a public welcome to the international delegates. The theatre background and the boxes were draped with Union Jacks, while a profusion of flowers on the stage, and the vari-colored dresses of the ladies, added picturesqueness to the scene. An orchestra was in attendance, and rendered the National Anthems of the different countries as representative delegates rose to reply to the welcoming address.

The keynote of the gathering was the impressive earnestness and sense of conviction which marked all the speeches. The wonderful work being carried on in the homes, in the social, moral, physical and political life of the nations of the world, by the councils of women, was exemplified in the remarks, and could not have failed to have enlightened the audience on the wide scope of the achievements. None who listened to the able and eloquent speeches of Miss Macmillan, of Scotland, Mrs. Higgs of England, and Miss Buchanan, of Ireland, could have failed to gather the conviction that in mental equipment and apparently in executive endowment women are not one white inferior to men. Miss Macmillan's plea for woman suffrage was of a studied and logical character, the had travelled many thousands of miles, had seen many sights, and had received numerous welcomes. They had reached Vancouver, a city of homes and to that city he bid them a hearty welcome, and hoped their stay would be of the most pleasurable character.

From Alice Solomon, correspondence secretary of the International Council of Women, in replying, referred to the great work which the organization was achieving. The hearty welcome which the delegates were receiving everywhere was a gratifying indication of public interest. Their progress through the Dominion had been a triumphal one, but those who loved last loved best, and nowhere had they been entertained so well as that day in Vancouver. She attributed the splendid welcome to the fact that Vancouverites believed in an organized league of women, having for its attainment the object of teaching people to know each other better. The delegates, she said, would accept this wonderful hospitality because it was an expression of opinion that the women of Vancouver believed in the future.

British Delegate Replies

Miss Amy Beevor followed, speaking on behalf of Great Britain and Ireland. They had learned, she said, through the work of the International Council, how everyone helped each other, how town helped town, and district assisted district. It had been left, however, to their visit to Canada to find out what one nation can learn from another. They had learned the lesson of a splendid hospitality.

Women on Public Boards.

This brought the replies to the welcoming addresses to a conclusion and Mayor Douglas called upon Miss Buchanan of Ireland for her address on "Women on Public Boards." The speaker opened by pointing out that in all the addresses delivered before the International Council of Women one note had been apparent, that the day of indiscriminate philanthropy was passed. Nations were now legislating for the uplifting of the social conditions of the people. She spoke of the system of local government in Ireland, which admitted women as officials. The results had proved that women were able to the responsibilities and opportunities of work in the municipal arena. In women there was a vast amount of administrative ability running to waste. Time and again they had proved themselves more economical than men.

The men of Ireland, said the speaker, were of the opinion, that women, especially if they had been married and were widows, were suitable for any position, and while this probably was an exaggeration, she could say unhesitatingly that there was room for her sex on every public board. She appealed to the people of Canada to take up this question. Representation, how town helped town, and dis-ed on behalf of the International Council, expressing the deep sense of the gratitude of every member for the great kindness and courtesy that had been shown them. The Vancouver visitors were then presented to the delegates. The scene was a very bright and animated one. A party of school girls could not have seemed merrier or looked happier than did these women who had for so many weeks been discussing the gravest moral and economic questions. But the hour was soon over and all hurried to the opera house.

After the meeting another reception was held at the beautiful home of Mrs. Beecher, who was assisted by Lady Tupper, Mrs. S. C. Ross and a number of young ladies.

On behalf of the mayor, Alderman time. It was almost impossible to snatch a few minutes' conversation with the delegates, but very courteously several of these distinguished ladies granted the request of a few minutes' interview.

Dr. Tibertus, whose strong personality was impressed upon all the delegates, spoke of the present situation regarding naval affairs in Germany. Her country, she said, was not aggressive. Population was growing and Germany must send her surplus population to her colonies. For the protection of these Dreadnoughts were needed. But there was no thought of employing them against their European neighbors.

A most interesting delegate is Miss Williams, sister of the Bishop of Bangor, who is the head of the Brit-dens about your houses, the clear air, so different from the smoke and crowding in our cities. I am a Welsh woman and you will understand how I love the country."

One of the experiments tried by this association was the sending out of a number of factory girls to Canada. They had done very well and had sent money home to bring others out. Miss Williams is a big woman, with a large heart and a keen sense of humor. Though selecting suitable immigrants from Canada from the great number of undesirables that apply to the association must be a hard task, it is one which she will perform with firmness and judgment, knowing well that it is no kindness to send out to this new country those who are unfit.

outcome of a legal training, as a result of which she has already won fame as a woman who has pleaded at the bar of the House of Lords. Miss Buchanan, with an easy and engaging flow of language illustrated in practical fashion the executive work being carried out by women officials on the public boards of Great Britain and Ireland. An address remarkable for its eloquence on the "Mother in Public Life," by Mrs. Higgs, brought a meeting, which was unique in its character on the Pacific coast, and no less unique than enjoyable, to a close.

Welcomed Delegates

Mayor Douglas, who occupied the chair, in a brief welcoming address, referred to the fact that the delegates tion on public boards was essentially woman's work. Canada was such a youthful nation that it faced many dangers, the necessary accompaniments of youth, and while young the country should realize the work which lay before its womanhood and see that everything attempted should have some definite result.

Votes for Women.

The "Right of Citizenship," which according to the speaker, meant the granting of woman suffrage, was dealt with by Miss Chrystabel Macmillan of Scotland. What women asked, she said, was that man would apply the golden rule of "doing unto others as they would be done by." She remembered once having heard a preacher say that this rule should apply to every race, every nation, and every color. He had forgotten to say also that it should apply to both sexes. The International Council of Women, at the meeting held five years ago in Berlin, had ordered that the subject of the Rights of Citizenship should be taken up. This subject involved largely the question of woman suffrage, and the speaker went on to bring out arguments in favor of the movement. The contention of her sex she said was they were not willing to sacrifice their qualifications.

The meeting was brought to a conclusion with the singing of the national anthem.

FOURTEEN DEAD OF VESSEL CREW

Steamer Sunk by Collision on Lake Superior—Half Her Men Drown

Sault Ste. Marie, July 12.—Three minutes after the steel steamers Isaac M. Scott and John B. Cowie had collided in Lake Superior early this morning, about a mile and a half off Whitefish Point lighthouse, the Cowie had gone to the bottom in 50 feet of water, carrying with her fourteen members of her crew. The Scott, although badly damaged about the bows, put back to this port, where she arrived this afternoon with part of the crew of the Cowie.

A heavy fog was responsible for the collision. The Scott, a new boat, on her maiden trip to the head of the lakes, had just passed the light at Whitefish Point and straightened out her course up the lake, when suddenly the John B. Cowie loomed up through the fog, broadside on to the Scott and only a few feet away.

The Cowie was down bound with 8,000 tons of iron ore in the hold. The Scott crashed into the side of the heavily laden Cowie. For 15 feet her bow penetrated, tons of water rushed into the great opening, and in three minutes the Cowie had gone to the bottom of the lake.

Immediately after the collision a line was thrown from the deck of the Scott to the Cowie, and three members of the crew escaped to the deck of the upbound boat by this means. The others of the crew who were saved jumped from the sinking steamer into the lake, some without life preservers, and were picked up by the Scott and the steamer Goodyear.

which was a short distance astern of the Scott when the collision occurred. Capt. Rogers, of the Cowie, was one of those rescued by the Goodyear. Until he is heard from it is impossible to secure the names of the men who perished. The survivors include two engineers, four firemen, four deck hands, second cook, porter and an older named Patten.

The Scott received serious injuries in the collision, which would probably have sent her to the bottom had she been loaded. The John B. Cowie was 445 feet long, with 50 feet beam, and was owned by the Cowie Transit Company of Cleveland. The Cowie went into commission in 1902.

Magnificent views are to be had from all upstairs windows embracing the straits, with Olympic Mountains, outer wharf, Victoria West, Parliament Buildings and City, and nearer parts of Bay District.

As stated the immediate surroundings are very pretty and slight alterations would convert some present space into admirable tennis lawns. Lovely flower trees, lily pond, and shrubbery already are there, also good out-buildings, which can be used as motor shed and coach house. The property is close to carline and only a few minutes' walk from Empress Hotel and Post Office. The owner is absolutely obliged to leave Victoria before the coming winter, after a considerable length of residence here, and it is imperative that THIS PROPERTY BE SOLD BEFORE then. BARRISTER WILL GIVE OPINION respectable men the men who have been attracted here as a result of the race meet are not. They have come here to ruin the youth of the city and the whole atmosphere of the city is polluted.

While the discussion on the mayor's motion did not come up for some time after members of the deputation had spoken the rules of the council meeting were suspended in order that the matter should be considered at the earliest possible moment as Mayor Hall wished to leave for Government House.

Further Than Contemplated.

While none of the aldermen appeared to wish to move the resolution Alderman Stewart said he would do so in order to get it before the meeting. Mayor Hall believed that the race meet had gone much further than had ever been contemplated by the council. He referred to incidents which had been brought to his notice, of young men losing more than they could afford. The individual members of the Country Club had done everything to keep the races within bounds. When the club was organized it had not contemplated running for sixty days. The council did not contemplate such a thing and the sixty days had been decided upon after the agreement between the Country Club and the B. C. Agricultural Association had been passed. There is a legal side to the question and his worship suggested that perhaps it would be better to get the city barrister's opinion. He believed that from the material and moral side of the question the race meet is anything but satisfactory.

To Alderman Turner, Mayor Hall stated that he has not yet taken any legal advice on the question.

Alderman Humber declared that he did not believe that a majority of the council would favor the repudiation of the agreement. The mayor had voted for the agreement and he knew that the most was to continue for sixty days. He (Alderman Humber) knew it was to continue for sixty days.

Alderman Macle pointed out that while one side of the question had been heard there was the other side. The Country Club is composed of some of the best men in the community. He had voted for the agreement and he believed at the time that it was all right.

Alderman Turner wanted to know if the Country Club has violated the agreement. He had not heard that such was the case. If there has been a violation of the agreement what is the city going to do about it? He doubted very much if the city has any legal right to step in at this stage.

Mayor Hall maintained that the council in endorsing the agreement reserved the right to step in if the operation of the agreement should prove a nuisance. Of course he was willing to admit that there is a lot of the members of the club who don't know in regard to young men losing money which they could not afford.

Want Barrister's Opinion.
Aldermen McKeown and Raymond advocated getting the opinion of the city barrister while Alderman Fullerton referred to a recent communication from the Bishop of Columbia asking that the council should investigate the reports of gambling at the race track and Alderman Stewart declared that the council must be a very innocent "outfit."

"Did you ever go to the Gorge on the 24th of May and never see any betting?" he asked. "You can get anything you want, lottery tickets, raffle tickets or anything else."

"Only for church raffles" declared the mayor, a response which drew forth the question from Alderman Stewart: "What's the difference?" and a general laugh from the rest of the council board.

That the city should certainly not repudiate the agreement unless the Country Club has broken the terms thereof was Alderman Stewart's contention. Finally it was decided, without adopting the resolution as submitted, to refer it to the city barrister for an opinion.

DAMAGED EIR COMING HERE

Steamer Bumped on Bar When Leaving Gray's Harbor and Was Damaged

DECKLOAD SWEEP
OFF BY SEAS

Freighter Limped Back to Hoquiam With Pumps Keeping Water Down

The Norwegian steamer Eir, which bumped on the bar at Gray's harbor on Sunday morning, and was swept by seas, losing part of her deckload, returned to Hoquiam in distress with several feet of water in her hold, and after being temporarily repaired will probably come to the Esquimalt drydock to be surveyed and repaired. Advice received yesterday from Hoquiam stated it was the intention of Capt. Marcussen to proceed to Esquimalt to have the necessary repairs to his vessel effected.

The Eir, in command of Capt. Marcussen, left Hoquiam on Sunday morning with 800,000 feet of lumber on board for La Boca, or as the port has recently been renamed Balboa, Panama, and while passing out she struck heavily on the bar off Gray's harbor and sustained injuries which necessitated her limping back to the Washington port in distress.

With a portion of the deckload gone and several feet of water in the fore hold, she is in need of dry docking before proceeding on her journey. The accident occurred by the vessel attempting to turn around a while near the breaking bar and getting out of the main channel. Before being released she was struck by several heavy seas, which carried away a portion of her deckload and opened some of her seams. Just what damage is done to the vessel's hull cannot be determined until a survey is made.

The steamer was under its own steam and Pilot Knud Bull was at the helm. Going at a fair clip the steamer suddenly grounded, and remained there nearly an hour. The tug Printer, Capt. Sanborn, was leading and quickly answered the call for assistance, but the Eir steamed back into the harbor.

An examination showed the vessel leaking badly in the forward tank and taking water at the rate of eight inches an hour. Capt. Marcussen put the pumps to working, and came to this city for more pumps. The Lloyd's agent here was notified, and the craft placed in the care of the underwriters. Divers left for the scene in the afternoon. It is not known whether the water will reach the cargo of flour.

The Eir is well known here. She recently spent some time lying disengaged at Esquimalt.

UGLY RUMORS REGARDING THE YOSEMITE WRECK

Sensational Developments Anticipated When Inquiry Is Held by the Marine Inspectors

The wreck of the old paddle-wheel steamer Yosemite is to be investigated by the United States steamship inspectors as soon as possible. The Seattle Post-Intelligencer says: "Numerous rumors have been in circulation regarding the wreck. Some of these charges are of an ugly nature, but many are mere conjecture. It is expected, however, that at the trial some interesting testimony will be heard."

C. D. Hillman, owner of the Yosemite, said that he will court the fullest inquiry. He stated that he is sorely disappointed at the mishap, but will lose no time in securing two other passenger steamers to replace the old side-wheeler.

"It seems queer to me," he said last night, "that the vessel should have been at least 600 feet out of her course and hung up on the only rocks in that vicinity. All this was done in broad daylight. The steamer was wrecked while running at full speed and she is hanging amidships. It looks like carelessness to me. If not something worse. I want the inspectors to look into the affair and get to the bottom of this. I did not have a cent of insurance on the vessel."

000 to me, including the loss of time and the interruption of my business. I was offered and refused $75,000 for the Yosemite, but the loss of the steamer alone is only incidental. However, this wreck don't put me down and out, for already I have options on two large vessels, one at San Francisco with a capacity for 2,200 people, and another lying on the Sound. I will have excursion service within a short time. I intend to operate two vessels, one to Boston harbor and the other to Birmingham, where I have sold $300,000 worth of property in the last six weeks."

While the general opinion is that the Yosemite is a total loss, Mr. Hillman last night would not concede this, although admitting that the steamer lies in a bad position. He said that he would give $30,000 to any firm that will raise and repair the vessel.

The wreck broke in two. It is still hanging on the rock, but should heavy weather set in the prediction is made that the steamer will slide off and sink. The owner says the fact that she did not break up at once is due to her splendid oak hull, which, when examined last winter, was found in splendid condition, although the craft was built forty-seven years ago.

The break appeared just forward of the paddle wheel, and marine experts state that the wreck is total. Should the steamer be pulled off the rock they claim she would sink. No effort to release her has been made as it is considered a hopeless task.

The planos, life-preservers and other furnishings were saved. The Santa Cruz and several of the barges are still alongside to save what is possible. Shipping men think the engines and boiler may be salvaged, but they agree in stating that the hull is beyond repair.

MANY LINERS AT THE OUTER WHARF

Teucer Expected in Port This Morning Will Be Followed During Week by Many Vessels

This will be a busy week at the outer wharf. Following the arrival of the steamer Teucer, of the Blue Funnel line, expected this morning from Seattle to discharge her inward cargo, consisting of a thousand tons of general freight, five other liners are expected before the week ends with total tonnage of over 20,000 tons registered. The Teucer will after discharging her local freight, take on whale oil, lumber, and other freight for her outward voyage. The freight to be discharged here this morning by the Teucer includes 104 tons steel rails and fish plates for R. Dunsmuir & Sons; ten tons Canada plates for McFarlane Manufacturing Company; 20 tons soda ash and caustic soda for the B. C. Soap Works; nine tons pipe connections for A. Sheret, and seven tons for Hayward & Dods; six tons for J. Ward & Co.; nine tons plate glass for Mellor Brothers; eight tons Canada plates for B. C. Paint Co.; fifteen tons tubs for the Robertson & Gordon company; 36 tons white and paris white for B. A. Paint Co.; four tons sheet lead for R. Ward & Co.; five tons chandlers' supplies for E. B. Marvin & Co.; four tons metal alloy for E. G. Prior & Co.; five tons tin plate or Pioneer Co., and a quantity of naval supplies for the ships at Esquimalt.

Following the coming of the Teucer to the outer wharf the steamer Antiochus of the Blue Funnel line is expected in port to complete her outward cargo, and after loading further shipments of whale oil and lumber she will start on her long run around the world to Liverpool via the ports of the far east and the Suez Canal.

The R. M. S. Empress of Japan is scheduled to sail also on Wednesday. She will leave Vancouver on arrival of the eastern mail, due at 10 o'clock and will sail from the outer wharf the same evening. The white liner will have a full cargo of general freight, including shipments of Canadian manufactures, condensed milk, flour, and other freight. A fair complement of passengers has been booked for the C. P. R. liner.

The following day the steamer Lonsdale of the Canadian-Mexican line is scheduled to sail for Salina Cruz and way ports, and the steamer Brna of the reached San Francisco this morning from Panama and way ports of Honduras, Salvador, and other South American republics and Mexico, is due from the south on Thursday.

The R. M. S. Aorangi of the Canadian-Australian line is to sail on Friday. Leaving the outer wharf in the evening for Honolulu, Suva, Brisbane and Sydney. She may also make a call at Pagan Island, where a cable staff lives just south of the line. The Aorangi is being inspected today at Vancouver by the United States steamship inspectors. Owing to her call at Honolulu the Canadian-Australian liner requires United States certificate of inspection.

THIEVES STOLE CAPTAIN'S TROUSERS

Captain Hadley, of Motor Launch Boothby, Awakened by Thieves Decamping From Craft

Capt. Hadley, of the power launch Boothby, of the B. C. Electric Company, which arrived a few days ago from Vancouver, is mourning the loss of his trousers, and incidentally $23 the pockets held. While he slept on the cushions of the launch on Sunday night two thieves entered the cabin. Capt. Hadley was awakened by the falling of a gramophone to see the thieves making off, one of them dropping a box of gramophone records as he ran. The Boothby is one of the best power launches in these waters, being supplied with 60 horse power Imperial engines. The vessel is here to take General Manager Sperling and the visiting directors of the B. C. Electric Company to Jordan river.

QUEEN CITY BACK FROM RIVERS' INLET

Brought News of Cutting Affray at Fishing Camp Yucatan on Way North

With 75 passengers from Rivers Inlet and way ports the steamer Queen City reached port on Sunday, and last night started north again on another voyage. The steamer brought news that salmon are beginning to run well on Rivers Inlet and fishermen have been taking from 60 to 70 to the boat during the past week. The steamer Yucatan, with George W. Perkins and his party of thirty, including a number of Eastern millionaires, on board, was sighted bound north. The Yucatan was proceeding from Powell River to Alert Bay, where it was proposed to hire Indians and pole up the Nimpkish River in Indian canoes to Nimpkish Lake, where the party will indulge in trout fishing. There are few better trout fishing districts in the world than at the headwaters of the Nimpkish river.

The Queen City brought a Japanese passenger to Vancouver in charge of Police Constable Curtis, of Rivers Inlet charged with slashing and cutting a fellow Nipponese at one of the northern fishing camps. It seems the prisoner entered a bank house, while his victim was cutting, and running upon him from behind slashed at him with a knife, cutting the unfortunate man severely before he was overpowered by other fishermen and given in charge. The injured man was sent to the hospital of Dr. Large for treatment and is recovering.

The Queen City brought a hundred tons of delayed freight for Victoria consignees ex the steamer Suverle from the Orient. The Suverle proceeded direct to the Sound on arrival in ward going to Vancouver, where the local freight was landed.

FISHING STEAMERS SECURE THEIR CREWS

Strike Continues Among Fishermen at Vancouver—Two Steamers Leave for Northern Grounds

The fishing steamer Kingfisher left Vancouver on Sunday for the northern fishing grounds following the Manhattan, which left on Saturday, both securing crews replacing the striking fishermen. The strike of the New England Fish Company's employees is still continuing, but practically no inconvenience has been able to secure crews sufficient to man its boats, and these have returned with exceptionally large cargoes. This probably has made the strikers somewhat angry, and one or two cases in which the present employees have been assailed have been reported. On Saturday afternoon the captain of the Celestial Empire, Captain Peter Rorvik, who is now working for the Canadian Fish Company, of New Westminster, and who chanced to be down at the New England Fish Company's wharf, was rather badly handled by the strikers. He was arguing with some of them with the result that a quarrel arose, followed by an assault.

QUADRA RELIEVES NORTHERN KEEPERS

Lonely Vigil on Egg Island Results in Abandonment of Lightkeepers Post

The government steamer Quadra returned on Sunday from Egg Island, where she went to take off the retiring lightkeeper, James Davis and his wife and leave J. Forsyth, the new lightkeeper. The steamer will proceed in a few days to the west coast on a similar mission, going to Alberni to pick up a new assistant lightkeeper to relieve the present incumbent of that position at the Pachena light station. On her return the Quadra will be made ready for her cruise with Earl Grey and party on board. For this cruise Capt. Holmes Newcomb, of the fishery protection cruiser Kestrel, is to take Capt. Hackett's place on board the lighthouse tender. It is a lonely life that of a lightkeeper on Egg Island, a speck of rock lying far out in Queen Charlotte Sound, where months pass without the lone keepers of the light seeing any face other than their own. This is why, after five years of solitude, Mr. and Mrs. J. Davis tired of the life and asked to be relieved.

At Egg Island the visits of the Quadra, Newington or Leebro with stores are gala occasions, and when a canoe arrives from the mainland with a few Indians the lightkeepers feel like making holiday. The lighthouse tenders and an occasional, very occasional Indian canoe are the only visitors. The wars and rumors of wars, and the ways of the world and only until some passing steamer drops a file of papers astern buoyed with a piece of timber and the lightkeeper's boat puts the way to the seafarer's celerity as a boat from a whaler would chase ambergris.

CURZON BEATS HER RIVAL IN RACE

Left Iliquo Same Day as the Royal Sovereign En Route to Royal Roads

The Chilian bark Curzon, Capt. Vieinay, which reached William Head yesterday morning and proceeded to Vancouver in tow of the tug Wanderer to load a return cargo at Hastings mills, was 65 days from Iliquo. The Chilian sailed raced up the coast with another ancient sailer flying the flag of Chile, the bark Royal Sovereign, Capt. Lamont. Both vessels left the harbor at Iliquo on the same day, May 8th, and captain and crew of each vowed that their craft would be the first to drop anchor in Royal Roads. The Curzon won, for the Royal Sovereign has not yet been heard from. The British bark Ellisland, which left Santa Rosalia in the Gulf of Mexico 40 days ago in ballast for Royal Roads is about due. Other ships on the way from the west coast are the Thistlebank from Santa Rosalia, and Riard de Soler and Admiral Tethoff from Iliquo.
